

Exercise-5 (page -322)

Join each of the following sets of Simple Sentences into one Complex Sentence:

A. By using Noun Clauses.

1. That virtue is its own reward is certain.
2. Why Shah Jahan built the Taj at Agra is well known.
3. That the city would surrender without a blow was generally expected in the camp.
4. Always remember that there should be no spelling mistakes in your answer.
5. Hearing that the enemy was approaching we became alarmed.
6. What you suggest is not practicable.
7. It was during the vacation that he compiled the Anglo-Sanskrit Dictionary.
8. What he said is of no importance to me.
9. No one knew how deep the well was.
10. The old man spread that the child had been abducted by a wizard.
11. Do you know when the train will arrive?
12. That we met him in the bank was our fortune.
13. Time alone will show whether his hopes of becoming great writer will be fulfilled.
14. Astronomers have definitely proved that the earth is round, the sun is stationary and the moon moves round the earth.
15. That you saw him is most probable.

B. By using Adjective Clauses.

1. I saw the boy who had won the medal.
2. Bring me the basket which is on the second self of the book case.
3. The chair which I bought was very expensive.
4. I have bought a story book which has many tricolour pictures.
5. She sang a sweet song whose memory fills me with pleasure.
6. He had two sons each of whom had wasted thousands of rupees in idle pursuits.
7. The wagon carried the sacks which were left all night in the open square.
8. The forest was the haunt of outlaws whose evil deeds were the gossip of the countryside.
9. It is an important secret which I must keep to myself.
10. That nation where truth is valued above everything else cannot be poor.
11. The careless messenger lost the letter which had been entrusted to him.
12. The man who committed a burglary last night has been caught.
13. My younger sister who at present lives in Kolkata does not like the noise and smell of Kolkata.
14. The boy took hold of the golden watch which was on the table.
15. A party of school boys who had gone out on an excursion were attacked by a party of village lads who wanted to rob them of their baskets of sweets and fruits.

C. By using Adverb Clauses.

1. He helped his friends because he loved them.
2. The tale was as dull as it was long.
3. As they set up a terrible howling, the people ran to the spot.
4. As soon as the wolf fell he died there.
5. You shall have the book if you beg very hard.
6. The boy had forgotten his toys after he had seen the snake.
7. As soon as firing commenced the mob dispersed.
8. When the soldiers passed through the streets the people cheered to express their joy.
9. No other man in the village is so intelligent as he is.
10. After he found his match, he was very happy.
11. If you want success in life, you should always persevere.
12. Though he inherited large property, he never enjoyed peace of mind.
13. When the money is paid to the clerk, he sticks a stamp on the form.
14. Dr. Johnson talked so much that he made himself hoarse.
15. My friend went to Delhi where he had to buy a few pieces of cloth.
16. The cat is not as large as the dog.
17. It was so cold last night that I could not sleep.
18. I took my umbrella with me lest I should get wet in the rain.
19. Though Robert Bruce failed repeatedly in his attempts, he was not discouraged.
20. If you do not hurry, you will be late for school.
21. As the soldiers advanced, the bugle sounded.
22. As children are making a noise above us on the roof, it is impossible to work.
23. After the mouse had tried for a long time to get free, he succeeded.
24. The other children are not as clever as John.
25. When I was walking through the college lane the other day, I was overtaken by a sudden shower of rain.